Essay on Islam in 300 Words

For Class 8 to 10

Islam is a religion of peace, compassion and complete submission to the will of Allah. The word Islam comes from the Arabic root word meaning peace and surrender. It was revealed to the last Prophet, Hazrat Muhammad (PBUH), in the city of Makkah over 1400 years ago. The message of Islam is universal and timeless, meant for all people regardless of race, language or nationality. The foundation of Islamic belief rests on six articles of faith. Muslims believe in one God, Allah, who is the Creator and Sustainer of the universe. They believe in angels, the revealed books including the Quran, all the prophets from Adam to Muhammad (PBUH), the Day of Judgment and in divine will or Taqdeer. These beliefs shape the worldview and actions of every Muslim. The five pillars of Islam are the practical duties that every Muslim must perform. The first pillar is Shahada, the declaration that there is no god but Allah and Muhammad (PBUH) is His messenger. The second is Salah, the five daily prayers that keep a Muslim connected to Allah. The third is Zakat, which is giving a portion of wealth to the poor. The fourth is fasting during the holy month of Ramadan, which teaches self discipline and gratitude. The fifth pillar is Hajj, the pilgrimage to Makkah, which is obligatory for those who are physically and financially able. Islam teaches moral values such as honesty, kindness, humility, patience and justice. It emphasises the importance of family, respect for parents and taking care of orphans and the needy. Muslims are encouraged to seek knowledge, work hard and contribute positively to society. Islam prohibits lying, cheating, backbiting, oppression and all forms of injustice. The Quran and the Sunnah of the Prophet (PBUH) provide complete guidance on how to live a righteous and balanced life. Islam is not limited to rituals but extends to every aspect of life including business, governance, relationships and personal conduct. It promotes peace, equality and the dignity of every human being. Islam is a source of comfort, guidance and purpose for over 1.8 billion Muslims worldwide. It teaches that this life is a test and the real success lies in pleasing Allah and earning a place in Jannah. By following Islam, a person can achieve true peace and happiness in both worlds.

Essay on Islam in 500 Words

For Class 9 to 12 & FSc

Introduction

Islam is a monotheistic religion that emphasises submission to the will of Allah, the one and only God. The word Islam is derived from the Arabic word meaning peace and surrender. It was revealed to the last and final Prophet, Hazrat Muhammad (PBUH), through the angel Jibreel in the 7th century in the city of Makkah. Islam is not just a religion but a complete way of life that provides guidance on spiritual, social, moral and legal matters. Today, it is the second largest religion in the world with over 1.8 billion followers.

Core Beliefs of Islam

The foundation of Islam rests on six articles of faith known as Iman. The first is belief in Allah as the only God who has no partners and is the Creator of everything. The second is belief in angels, who are created from light and carry out the commands of Allah. The third is belief in the revealed books, including the Torah, Zabur, Injeel and the final book, the Quran. The fourth is belief in all the prophets, starting from Adam and ending with Muhammad (PBUH), who is the seal of the prophets. The fifth is belief in the Day of Judgment, when every person will be held accountable for their actions. The sixth is belief in divine destiny, that everything happens according to the will and knowledge of Allah.

The Five Pillars of Islam

The five pillars are the essential acts of worship that define the practice of Islam. The first pillar is Shahada, the declaration of faith that there is no god but Allah and Muhammad (PBUH) is His messenger. This is the foundation of being a Muslim. The second pillar is Salah, the five daily prayers performed at specific times. Prayer keeps the believer connected to Allah and strengthens faith. The third pillar is Zakat, which is the act of giving a portion of wealth to those in need. It purifies wealth and promotes social justice. The fourth pillar is Sawm, fasting during the month of Ramadan from dawn to sunset. It teaches self control, patience and empathy for the poor. The fifth pillar is Hajj, the pilgrimage to the holy city of Makkah, which every Muslim must perform once in their lifetime if they are able.

Moral and Social Teachings

Islam places great emphasis on moral character and social responsibility. It teaches honesty, truthfulness, kindness, humility and patience. Muslims are encouraged to treat others with respect and compassion, regardless of their religion or background. Islam promotes justice and equality and condemns all forms of oppression, racism and discrimination. The family is considered the foundation of society, and Islam teaches respect for parents, care for children and kindness to relatives. Seeking knowledge is highly encouraged, and the first word revealed in the Quran was "Read". Islam also teaches the importance of cleanliness, both physical and spiritual, and encourages hard work and earning a lawful livelihood.

The Quran and Sunnah

The Quran is the holy book of Islam and the literal word of Allah revealed to Prophet Muhammad (PBUH). It contains guidance on all aspects of life and is a source of wisdom, comfort and direction. The Sunnah refers to the sayings, actions and approvals of the Prophet (PBUH), which provide practical examples of how to live according to Islamic principles. Together, the Quran and Sunnah form the complete framework of Islamic law and ethics.

Conclusion

Islam is a religion of peace, mercy and guidance. It provides a complete code of conduct for every aspect of life and aims to bring harmony between the individual, society and the Creator. By following the teachings of Islam, Muslims strive to live a life of righteousness, achieve inner peace and earn the pleasure of Allah in this world and the hereafter. Islam is a source of hope, strength and purpose for millions of people around the globe.
