

Essay on My Room

10 Lines, 100, 200, 300 & 500 Words

For Class 1 to 12, Matric, FSc & Board Exams

TopStudyWorld.com

Free Education for Every Pakistani Student

10 Lines on My Room

For Class 1 to 3

My room is my personal sanctuary where I feel most comfortable and at peace.

It is a medium sized room with cream colored walls and a large window that lets in natural light.

My study table is positioned near the window, where I do my homework and prepare for exams.

A comfortable bed with my favorite blue bedsheet occupies one corner of the room.

I have a wooden bookshelf filled with textbooks, novels, and my collection of Islamic books.

Posters of inspirational quotes and a beautiful calligraphy of Ayat ul Kursi decorate my walls.

A small cupboard holds my clothes, school uniform, and personal belongings neatly organized.

I keep my room clean and tidy as the Prophet (PBUH) emphasized cleanliness and order.

My room reflects my personality and interests through the items I choose to display.

This private space allows me to study, rest, pray, and reflect without any disturbance.

Essay on My Room in 100 Words

For Class 3 to 5

My room is my favorite place in the entire house. It is a cozy space where I can study, relax, and be myself. The walls are painted a soothing cream color, and a large window brings in fresh air and sunlight. My study table sits near this window, covered with books and stationery. A comfortable bed with blue sheets occupies one corner, and a bookshelf filled with my favorite books stands against the wall. I have decorated the walls with inspirational quotes and Islamic calligraphy. Keeping my room clean and organized helps me stay focused and peaceful.

Essay on My Room in 200 Words

For Class 5 to 8

My room is more than just four walls; it is my personal sanctuary where I spend most of my time. Located on the second floor of our house, it is a medium sized room with cream colored walls that create a calm atmosphere. The most prominent feature is a large window that overlooks our small garden, allowing natural light to flood in during the day. I have positioned my wooden study table right next to this window, where I do my homework, read books, and prepare for exams. The room contains all my essential belongings organized neatly. My bed with a comfortable blue bedsheet and pillows sits in one corner, providing a cozy spot for rest. A tall bookshelf holds my textbooks, story books, and a special collection of Islamic literature including the Quran with translation. The walls are decorated with motivational posters and a beautiful framed calligraphy of Ayat ul Kursi. A small cupboard stores my clothes and school uniform. I make sure to keep my room clean and tidy, as cleanliness is an important part of our faith. This personal space reflects who I am and gives me the privacy and peace I need to study, pray, and recharge.

Essay on My Room in 300 Words

For Class 8 to 10

My room is my favorite place in the world, a personal space that truly belongs to me. It is located on the second floor of our house in Lahore, away from the noise and activity of the living areas. The room is medium sized, approximately 12 by 10 feet, with walls painted in a warm cream color that makes the space feel bright and welcoming. A large window on the eastern wall allows morning sunlight to stream in, along with a gentle breeze that keeps the room fresh and airy. The furniture in my room is simple but functional. My study table, made of dark wood, is positioned directly beneath the window where the natural light is best. This is where I spend hours doing homework, preparing for exams, and reading. The table surface is usually covered with notebooks, textbooks, pens, and a small lamp for evening study sessions. Against the opposite wall stands my single bed with a blue bedsheet and two pillows, where I sleep and sometimes read before bedtime. Next to the bed is a wooden bookshelf that houses my growing collection of books, including Urdu and English novels, Islamic books, and all my academic textbooks organized by subject. I have personalized my room with decorations that reflect my interests and values. The walls feature several motivational posters with quotes from famous personalities and scholars. The most special decoration is a beautifully framed Islamic calligraphy of Ayat ul Kursi that hangs above my bed, reminding me of Allah's protection. A small cupboard holds my clothes, school uniform, and personal items, all organized neatly. I have learned from Islamic teachings that cleanliness and organization are important, so I make an effort to keep my room tidy. My room is not just a physical space; it is where I study, pray, rest, dream, and grow. It is my refuge from the world and the place where I can truly be myself.

Essay on My Room in 500 Words

For Class 9 to 12 & FSc

Introduction

Everyone needs a personal space where they can feel comfortable, relaxed, and free to be themselves. For me, that special place is my room. Located on the second floor of our family home in Lahore, my room serves multiple purposes. It is my study area, my bedroom, my library, and my private sanctuary all in one. Though it may seem like an ordinary space to others, to me it is extraordinary because it reflects my personality, holds my most precious belongings, and provides the peace and privacy I need to study, rest, and grow as a person.

Physical Description and Layout

My room is medium sized, measuring approximately 12 feet by 10 feet. The walls are painted a soft cream color, which I chose because it creates a calm, bright atmosphere without being too stark. The room has one large window on the eastern wall, which is my favorite feature. Every morning, sunlight pours through this window, naturally waking me up and filling the room with warmth. The window also provides excellent ventilation, allowing fresh air to circulate, which is especially welcome during Lahore's hot summers. The floor is covered with cool white tiles that are easy to clean and keep the room comfortable even in warm weather. A simple ceiling fan hangs above, providing relief during the hottest months.

Furniture and Belongings

The furniture in my room is simple but serves all my needs perfectly. My study table is the centerpiece of the room, positioned directly beneath the window to take advantage of natural light. Made of dark polished wood, it has two drawers where I store stationery, important papers, and my collection of pens and markers. The table surface is usually occupied by my current textbooks, notebooks, a table lamp for evening studies, and sometimes my laptop when I need to do research or type assignments. My bed, a comfortable single bed with a blue bedsheet and matching pillows, occupies the corner opposite the study table. Though simple, it is where I get my rest after long days of school and studying. Against one wall stands my prized possession: a tall wooden bookshelf with five shelves. The top shelves hold my academic textbooks organized by subject, while the lower shelves contain my personal reading collection, including Urdu novels, English fiction, Islamic books, and my Quran with Urdu translation. A small wooden cupboard next to the door stores my clothes, school uniform, shoes, and personal items, all organized systematically.

Personal Touches and Decorations

I have decorated my room in ways that reflect my values and aspirations. The walls feature several carefully chosen items. Above my study table hangs a poster with the quote 'Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world,' reminding me why I work so hard. Above my bed is a beautifully framed calligraphy of Ayat ul Kursi in elegant Arabic script, which provides spiritual comfort and reminds me that Allah is always watching over me. I also have a small bulletin board where I pin important notes, exam schedules, and motivational reminders. A prayer mat rolled neatly in the corner serves as a reminder of my five daily prayers. These personal touches make the room uniquely mine and create an environment that supports both my academic goals and spiritual growth.

Why My Room Is Special

My room is more than just a physical space; it is where I spend the majority of my time and where important aspects of my life unfold. It is where I study for exams, often late into the night, pushing myself to achieve good grades. It is where I perform my prayers in peace, away from distractions. It is where I read books that transport me to different worlds and expand my understanding. It is where I rest and recharge after exhausting days. Most importantly, it is a space that is completely my own, where I can think, dream, and be myself without any pretense. The Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) emphasized cleanliness and organization, so I make efforts to keep my room tidy and clean, which also helps me maintain mental clarity and focus.

Conclusion

My room may appear simple and ordinary to others, but to me, it is invaluable. It is a reflection of who I am, what I value, and what I aspire to become. Every item in it, from the books on my shelf to the calligraphy on my wall, tells a part of my story. This personal sanctuary provides me with the environment I need to study effectively, rest peacefully, and grow both academically and spiritually. I am grateful to have this space that I can call my own, and I hope to continue creating positive memories within these four walls as I work toward my goals and dreams.

Thank You for Reading!

Visit TopStudyWorld.com for more free essays, notes, guide books, and past papers.

www.topstudyworld.com/pk/essay/