

Essay on Abdul Sattar Edhi

10 Lines, 100, 200, 300 & 500 Words

For Class 1 to 12, Matric, FSc & Board Exams

TopStudyWorld.com

Free Education for Every Pakistani Student

10 Lines on Abdul Sattar Edhi

For Class 1 to 3

Abdul Sattar Edhi was a great humanitarian and philanthropist from Pakistan.

He was born on 28th February 1928 in Bantva, Gujarat, India.

Edhi dedicated his entire life to serving humanity without discrimination.

He founded the Edhi Foundation, the largest welfare organization in Pakistan.

The foundation provides ambulance services, orphanages, shelters, and hospitals.

Edhi lived a very simple life and spent all his resources on helping the poor.

He was known for his honesty, humility, and selfless service.

Edhi received many national and international awards for his work.

He passed away on 8th July 2016, leaving behind a legacy of compassion.

Abdul Sattar Edhi is a true hero and a source of inspiration for everyone.

Essay on Abdul Sattar Edhi in 100 Words

For Class 3 to 5

Abdul Sattar Edhi was one of the greatest humanitarians in the world. He was born in 1928 in India and migrated to Pakistan after partition. Edhi dedicated his life to serving humanity. He founded the Edhi Foundation, which runs ambulance services, orphanages, old age homes, and hospitals across Pakistan. Edhi lived a very simple life, wearing the same clothes and eating simple food. He spent all his money and energy helping the poor and needy. He believed in serving people regardless of their religion, race, or background. Edhi received many international awards. He passed away in 2016, but his legacy continues to inspire millions.

Essay on Abdul Sattar Edhi in 200 Words

For Class 5 to 8

Abdul Sattar Edhi was a legendary humanitarian and social worker from Pakistan. He was born on 28th February 1928 in Bantva, Gujarat, India. After the partition in 1947, his family migrated to Karachi, Pakistan. Edhi witnessed the suffering of poor and helpless people, which inspired him to dedicate his life to serving humanity. He started his welfare work with a small dispensary and later founded the Edhi Foundation, which became the largest charitable organization in Pakistan. The Edhi Foundation provides free ambulance services, runs orphanages, shelters for the homeless, old age homes, and hospitals. It also offers rehabilitation centers for drug addicts and care for abandoned children. Edhi personally drove ambulances and rescued people in times of crisis. He lived a very simple and humble life. Despite managing billions of rupees in charity, he wore simple clothes and lived in a small room above his office. He believed in serving all human beings equally, regardless of religion or nationality. Abdul Sattar Edhi received numerous national and international awards, including the Gandhi Peace Award and the Lenin Peace Prize. He passed away on 8th July 2016, but his legacy of love, compassion, and service lives on. He is a true hero and an inspiration for all of us.

Essay on Abdul Sattar Edhi in 300 Words

For Class 8 to 10

Abdul Sattar Edhi was one of the most respected and admired humanitarians in the world. He was born on 28th February 1928 in Bantva, a small town in Gujarat, India. After the partition of the subcontinent in 1947, his family migrated to Karachi, Pakistan. The suffering and poverty he witnessed in Karachi deeply affected him. At a young age, he decided to dedicate his life to helping those in need. This decision changed the lives of millions of people. In 1951, Edhi started his welfare work with a small free dispensary in Karachi. With time, his efforts expanded, and he founded the Edhi Foundation. Today, it is the largest and most organized social welfare system in Pakistan. The foundation operates a fleet of over 1,800 ambulances, which is the largest ambulance service in the world. It runs orphanages, shelters for women and children, homes for the elderly and disabled, hospitals, and rehabilitation centers for drug addicts. The Edhi Foundation also provides emergency relief during natural disasters and conflicts. Edhi personally participated in rescue missions and often drove ambulances to help people in emergencies. What made Abdul Sattar Edhi truly special was his humility and simplicity. Despite managing a charity worth billions of rupees, he lived in a small two room apartment above his office. He wore simple clothes, ate basic food, and owned no personal wealth. He believed that all human beings, regardless of religion, race, or nationality, deserved dignity and care. His motto was to serve humanity selflessly. He never discriminated and helped everyone equally. His honesty and dedication earned him immense respect worldwide. Abdul Sattar Edhi received many prestigious awards, including the Gandhi Peace Award, the Lenin Peace Prize, and the Nishan e Imtiaz, Pakistan's highest civilian honor. He was also nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize. On 8th July 2016, Edhi passed away at the age of 88. His death was mourned by millions of people across the world. He was given a state funeral, and people from all walks of life came to pay their respects. Abdul Sattar Edhi's life is a shining example of selfless service and compassion. He is a true hero and will always remain an inspiration for humanity.

Essay on Abdul Sattar Edhi in 500 Words

For Class 9 to 12 & FSc

Introduction

Abdul Sattar Edhi was not just a man, but a symbol of humanity, compassion, and selfless service. He is regarded as one of the greatest philanthropists the world has ever seen. Born into a humble family, he rose to become a global icon of charity and kindness. His life story is a lesson in love, humility, and dedication. Edhi spent every moment of his life helping the poor, sick, orphaned, and abandoned. He believed that serving humanity is the highest form of worship. His legacy continues to inspire millions of people around the world.

Early Life and Inspiration

Abdul Sattar Edhi was born on 28th February 1928 in Bantva, a small town in Gujarat, India. His family belonged to a modest business background. Edhi's mother played a significant role in shaping his character. She taught him the importance of helping others and sharing with the needy. When Edhi was a young boy, his mother became paralyzed and later passed away. This personal tragedy deeply affected him and made him more sensitive to the suffering of others. In 1947, after the partition of India and Pakistan, his family migrated to Karachi. The journey was difficult, and Edhi saw the misery and helplessness of refugees. This experience strengthened his resolve to dedicate his life to helping humanity.

Foundation of the Edhi Foundation

In 1951, at the age of 23, Abdul Sattar Edhi started his welfare work with a small free dispensary in Karachi. He saved money from his job and used it to help sick and poor people. Gradually, his work expanded. He started collecting donations and set up shelters for the homeless. In 1957, an outbreak of influenza in Karachi killed many people. Edhi organized relief efforts and provided free medical care and ambulance services. This was the beginning of the Edhi Foundation, which later became the largest and most trusted welfare organization in Pakistan. The foundation grew to include ambulance services, hospitals, orphanages, old age homes, shelters for women and children, rehabilitation centers, and blood banks. The Edhi ambulance network became the largest in the world, with over 1,800 vehicles serving across Pakistan. The foundation also provides relief during natural disasters, wars, and emergencies.

Life of Simplicity and Humility

Despite managing billions of rupees in charity funds, Abdul Sattar Edhi lived an extremely simple life. He wore plain clothes, often the same shalwar kameez for years. He lived in a small two room apartment above his office in Karachi. He had no personal bank account and owned no property. He ate simple meals and avoided luxury. Edhi believed that money should be spent on helping people, not on personal comforts. His wife, Bilquis Edhi, supported him throughout his journey and worked alongside him in the foundation. Together, they raised abandoned children and provided care to thousands of helpless people. Edhi's humility and honesty earned him the trust and love of millions. People donated generously to the Edhi Foundation because they knew every penny would be used for the welfare of the needy.

Recognition and Legacy

Abdul Sattar Edhi received numerous national and international awards. He was honored with the Nishan e Imtiaz, Pakistan's highest civilian award. He also received the Gandhi Peace Award, the Lenin Peace Prize, and the UNESCO Madanjeet Singh Prize. He was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize multiple times. Despite all these honors, Edhi remained humble and continued his work with the same dedication. On 8th July 2016, after a long illness, Abdul Sattar Edhi passed away in Karachi. His death was a moment of deep sorrow for millions. He was given a state funeral, and people from all backgrounds came to pay their final respects. His body was wrapped in the Pakistani flag, and he was buried with full honors.

Conclusion

Abdul Sattar Edhi was a true servant of humanity. He proved that one person with determination and compassion can change the world. His life teaches us the values of selflessness, simplicity, and love for all human beings. Edhi did not believe in boundaries of religion, race, or nationality. He helped everyone equally because he saw humanity above everything else. Even after his death, the Edhi Foundation continues to serve millions of people. His son and family are carrying forward his mission. Abdul Sattar Edhi will always be remembered as a national hero and a global icon of compassion. He is an inspiration for all of us to live a life of kindness and service.

Thank You for Reading!

Visit TopStudyWorld.com for more free essays, notes, guide books, and past papers.

www.topstudyworld.com/pk/essay/